Instructions

If you will do (or did) conversations before writing, then during your writing time write phrases that you wanted to say -- that is, phrases that you should have said.

If you will do (or did) writing before conversations, then during your writing time write phrases that you plan to say.

You are choosing a jacket at a clothing store. A salesperson offers help.

Salesperson: "Are you finding everything okay?" (This is a common American expression used by salespeople when greeting customers.)

You: Ask whether the jacket you are looking at comes in size M.

Salesperson: "They sure do. Here's one in M."

You: Say you have a coupon. Ask how much the jacket costs with the coupon.

Salesperson: "You get $10 off with your coupon. The total will be $37.99."

You: Thank the salesperson. Pay using your credit card.

You are at a candy store. A salesperson offers help.

Salesperson: "Finding everything okay?"

You: Ask what is on sale.

Salesperson: "The pink frogs and green lizards are 25 percent off today." (These are gummy candies.)

You: Ask for a pound (454 grams) of pink frogs, half a pound of green lizards, and 2 pounds of chocolate peanuts.

Salesperson: "Certainly. Anything else?"

You: Say that's all you need.

Salesperson: "That will be $16.50."

You: Thank the salesperson. Pay using your credit card. Bonus: Use a different expression from the first conversation.
